The Stadtoase is a small street art and cultural festival in Braunau am Inn (Upper Austria). The first time was in September 2014. The festival sprout from the idea of turning the town square for a day in a green oasis of alternative arts and to enchant Braunau for one afternoon .

A particular concern of the city oasis, families and especially the children and young people can get a look in the incredible diversity of street arts. With different workshops the visitors can often discover hidden talents and interests and exciting encounters are created. With the city oasis we want to set an example for tolerance, vitality, creativity and encounter. It is a small festival that thrives on the interpla and of magic between street performers and the audience.

The location of the city is the beautiful townscquare in Braunau am Inn. We turn the location into a green oasis to relax and get in touch with different artforms and people.
The Stadtoase turns grey parking lots into green lawn places.

Due to the large success of the Stadtoase in the last year and the positive feedback from the visitors, it is a big pleasure to us to organize it again in 2016.
